NEWS RELEASE

GRAY TELEVISION CLOSES ON ACQUISITION OF MEREDITH CORPORATION’S LOCAL MEDIA GROUP

Atlanta, Georgia – Gray Television, Inc. (“Gray”) (NYSE: GTN) today closed on its previously announced acquisition of Meredith Corporation’s Local Media Group (“Meredith”) and its 17 television stations in 12 local markets for $16.99 per share in cash, or $2.8 billion in total enterprise value. Gray’s portfolio of television stations now serve 113 local markets reaching approximately 36 percent of US television households.

With estimated combined historical basis net revenue exceeding $3.2 billion on a blended 2020/2021 basis, Gray is now the nation’s second largest television broadcaster in terms of revenues. In addition, with a new, larger portfolio including 79 markets with the top-rated television station and 101 markets with the first and/or second highest rated television station, Gray retains its position as the largest owner of top-rated local television stations and digital assets in the United States.

“Gray is a far stronger company today with the exciting and transformative addition of Meredith’s excellent television stations and its fine employees,” said Gray’s Executive Chairman and CEO Hilton H. Howell. “We are grateful to the numerous professionals at Gray, Meredith and their advisers who dedicated themselves over the past year to the successful completion of this transaction.”

Gray’s acquisitions of Quincy Media, Inc. in August and of Meredith today are anticipated to be approximately 50 percent accretive to blended 2021/22 free cash flow per share. Expected strong free cash flow generation throughout 2021 and 2022 is anticipated to allow Gray to deleverage its capital structure following the closing. As of the closing date, the blended average annual interest rate on the aggregate $2.8 billion of incremental debt used, in part, to finance the Meredith acquisition was an estimated 4.15 percent.

The Meredith acquisition will increase Gray’s net revenues and expenses in the fourth quarter 2021, resulting in the following updated guidance:

- Broadcasting net revenues to between $655 and $665 million, and
- Operating expenses (before depreciation, amortization, and (gain) loss on disposal of assets, net)
  - Broadcasting between $457 and $466 million including transaction related expenses of between $19 and $20 million, and
  - Corporate between $73 and $80 million including transaction related expenses of between $51 and $54 million.

We anticipate that our total leverage ratio, as defined in our senior credit facility, at December 31, 2021, will be approximately 5.4 times on a trailing eight-quarter basis, netting our total cash balance and giving effect to all transaction related expenses.
